

6/8/18

Blessings, again, Dear Friends :)

I'd like to share:

I may have found the "meeting" I was looking for, and it's so great because it's a meeting where anyone can attend at any time. I have created an ACIM Blog on my website, and it can serve as our meeting place. I suppose you know that ACIM stands for A Course In Miracles, and I suppose you are familiar with that book.

If you are interested in attending this blog meeting with me and others on the Path, please visit my website. This is the only time I will email this whole group about this subject. I have no other announcements to make.

The ACIM Blog is currently up and running, but still in the beginning stages.

FYI: I have been making many updates to my website over the past several days. You may have to click your "Refresh" button on any page there to view the latest updates. If the page ever seems garbled or is otherwise misbehaving, please Refresh. Thanks!

In Love and Peace,
Linda FP